tadies as to the hute allocation, also when the hute was to be sent. Mrs. Angie Jamison in a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Williams with a life membership and gold pin, commending her on the valuable work she is doing among "the Home Helpers" and the interest shown in her work. Although Mrs. Williams was exceedingly surprised she felt very honoured to receive this recognition and would always treasure it and the co-operation among the ladies.

Rev. W. Jackson was present and introduced Mrs. Bell of Bobovoyan, a sister in the Lindsay Presby. Church who gave a talk on "serenity". "Not only are we to give of our money also our talents for the service of God and prayer. Prayer for the maintenance and reading of the Word of God and good Christmas Books and Bible reading in the home — just as it is mentioned in God for the use of your money. This is the theological basis of Bernard.

Mrs. Clifford Hargrave extended a vote of thanks on behalf of the Society to Mrs. Bell for the splendid talk after which Mrs. Edna Jamison read a very interesting letter written late in February from Miss Beattie McMurdoch a missionary in India.

Following the singing of a hymn and prayer the ladies were joined by Rev. Mr. Bell and children for a delectable lunch of fruit bread, cookies and squares in the schoolroom of the church.

Letter From To See

If you can see at all you can easily have a vacation within your pocket and look like a million dollars. Clothes are made this year so the reason they are cheaply made is because the main feature is the variety of colors, styles and materials that give a sparkle to any of the same color will be used a great deal over these clothes and styles for the summer. Many of them can be interchanged with a blue and a pink skirt or a cotton blouse and a plain shade for the trousers. Only dress will have any cost, to match making a very pretty ensemble that will take you anywhere. Many of the dresses have just across over their shoulders with a bolero to put on when needed. The fabrics are good and don't overheat them. The fabrics are so beautiful this summer that the picture dress is anywhere. There are more without showing them, with dresses but if you want to cover up a little more, the boleros will do this or you can have a scarf, the same material as your dress.

One Man's Opinion

Dear Wife says: "A school should be the most beautiful place in every town and village in the world that the punishment of unruly children should be that they would be barred from going to school on following day."

What's Your Quest?

How many cups of coffee do you drink in a day? According to one recent, Canadian coffee convention million cups of coffee every twenty-four hours. Yet a recent survey shows fifty-seven percent of them prefer American brewed coffee. Sherry McNell, coffee-taster and writer for a department store says that it's not that Canadian coffee is inferior in quality. It's simply that Canadians don't use enough coffee. The right amount is not making tablespoons per cup. But a survey showed only ten percent of Canadian coffee-drinkers use that amount. Twenty-two percent use a level tablespoon, and the remaining sixty percent use less than that. Well... everything to their own taste!

Keep It From Biting

If you buy cheese in large amounts, cut off an immediate supply and cover the rest with paraffin to keep it from biting. Even wax paper won't keep it moist if left for any length of time. Cheese is much better when it is left enough to keep it moist so make good care of it.

Old Laundry

What comes out in the wash at home, laundry would surprise even most of "savvy" children. The Chicago Laundry Owners Association reports that they can save the laundry owner of time, trouble in take on "family wash day" and the most frequent laundry of the laundry boy. But does laundry and even a garden hose get mixed up with the wash. One laundry found a huge black hair in the water. Another a rotten helmet. Money is a frequent item. One a new leather motorcycle suit. The company "back" to the laundry — direct contains 200-dollars. Other laundry have run across earrings and shoes... hot water bottles... false teeth... and even a rhinoceros.

Then there was a bundle that held a hand grenade. And all of other laundry, a woman was sorting through a bundle when a silver five foot ball. The woman thought it was a ring and failed.

Who Is Sleeping?

The Duke of Windsor is supposed to have a "fifteen" memory, but the Duchess says it isn't quite false. She says that if she says she really doesn't remember the day, she met him.

The Duke has written that he and the former, Wallace Warfield Simpson met in the autumn of 1931, in the third installment of her autobiography in a magazine. The Duchess says they really met in 1931.

"I'm sure I am right," the Duchess

because that as the year 2000, my first Paris wedding. She recalls that the meeting there wasn't very romantic, she and her husband, Ernest Simpson, were invited to substitute as champagne waiter for a country, wealthy party at which the then Prince of Wales was a guest. Mrs. Simpson caught a bad cold, didn't know how to curtsy, and she was accused of death of meeting.

ADMIRING COMMENTS FROM CROWD ON LINDSAY ART GUILD'S EXHIBITION

The Lindsay Art Guild's showing of Canadian paintings from the collection of Mrs. J. B. Macdonald, of Toronto, drew admiring comments from a discriminating crowd of visitors from Lindsay and the other communities of Victoria County as well as those from such points as Peterborough, Port Hope and Thimble.

The showing, which ran for three days in the Lindsay Collegiate, presented a wide range of subject matter and included oil, water colour and etching media.

The pictures were, all modern, dating back no further than the Group of Seven, but including many of the leading artists of the present moment. One who might be cited is Little Thomas Norton, of Montreal, who has just been commissioned by the Canadian Government to paint portraits of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, Grand

Macdonald, former official war artist for the Navy now working as an illustrator for the Star Weekly, and Carl Schaefer, war artist for the Air Force.

Two pictures which evoked the admiration of the visitors were from Thomas's "The Queen" and "Landscapes," a beautiful little oil of a fishing landscape. A group of paintings by A. V. Jackson was another spot where people lingered. Two other members of the Group of Seven were represented — E. H. Macdonald by "Lake Superior," "Ripple and Poplar" and Lawrence Harris by "North Shore — British Columbia."

In its own way over 30 works by David Milne, renowned for his original style, especially in water colour. Other well-known artists whose pictures were on exhibit were Emily Carr, Pegi Nicol, Goodwin Howells, Molly Bink, Frankens, Clark, B. B. Blinn and Jack Roth.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Judy Furman and family, half of Toronto, together with Mrs. James Haddock of Woodville, spent the weekend in Ottawa visiting Mr. and Mrs. Furman's daughter and husband, Orla, and Mrs. Stanley Koffler, and Orla and Mrs. Wm. Boudard. Mr. Furman and his wife returned to the city on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fink, James Boudard, Billie and Ann Marie of Toronto were Mother's Day visitors with Mrs. James Porter, Hamilton, and Mrs. G. O. Clever and children of Lindsay were among the large attendance at the Oshawa People's Forum and service held on Sunday evening.

Friends of Mrs. William Horan of York, regret to learn that she had to undergo surgery in the R.M.H. Her husband and son Robert and wife of Whitby were in town to assist her on Saturday.

Among the Saturday shoppers in town, were Mr. John Abbott, Hamilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kewler.

Mrs. Phyllis Huron of Toronto spent Mother's Day with her parents, a picture which were they any other day a mixed reaction was "Bittersweet" — an unusual, favorite with youthful viewers, but something of a puzzle to the majority. Another unusual picture was a stylized portrait in red and blue tones of "The Four Elements."

"The Guild expressed its appreciation to Mrs. Macdonald for her generous loan of these pictures to the group and radio for the day. Her exhibition was in such generous measure to the High School Board, Mr. Shorten, the catering staff of the Collegiate and the night volunteers and to all who gave material assistance," a Guild spokesman stated.

Columbium - Jet Engine Metal

Columbium, which melts at a scorching 4,360° Fahrenheit, finds uses in turbojet and rocket engines where it improves heat resisting qualities and impact strength of other metals. Dr. E. H. Nickel, of Federal Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, examines rock sections of columbium ore with petrographic microscope.

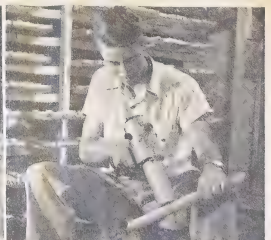

In Oka's Le Baronnet Hotel, projector Cy Ross illustrates to manager Paul Brisson that hotel has what is probably the only radio-active dance floor in Canada. Source (which has been placed there by planktonists) indicates .015 millirems per hour. Besides the high heat-resisting qualities that make it a natural for jet engines, columbium's affinity for gases has led it to being used extensively by the vacuum tube industry.

National Film Board Photos by Chris Land.

Long-sought for its Trappist monastery and the quality of its famous cheese, the French-Canadian hamlet of Oka, P.Q., today boasts the distinction of being the heart of a mining exploration boom. With pyramid-like drilling rigs fast becoming a part of Oka's pastoral scene, geologists and prospectors are heightening their search for Columbium, one of a host of rare minerals spawned by the atomic age. Columbium core samples (below) were taken from a depth of 175 feet.

Though extensive exploration in the Oka area has proven up large quantities of columbium-bearing ore, the search for the jet-age metal has extended to Oka's Slave Lake, where columbium ores are today being processed in a 125-ton-a-day capacity mill. Columbium stands at head of scarce metal list, and its rarity, has kept prices high. Pure columbium metal powder commands $19 a pound. A geodetic survey is shown being carried out in St. Joseph du Lac area, near Oka, P.Q.

Geologic A. C. Carmack, using a Simultaneous radium meter, checks radioactivity of core samples of columbium taken from fire near Oka, P.Q. Columbium is one of four 20th Century minerals (others: lithium, tantalum and titanium) which re-day are finding uses in everything from jets to jazz-records.

TV's Effect On Show Biz Passing-Jolley

Fredonia Falls (PNS)—Mr. Archibald J. Jolley, representative of the Motion Picture Association, and the guest of Honorable A. C. Cundy, made the special speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club in the Prince Restaurant. Introduced by Mr. Les Cusack of Mendenhall, Mr. Jolley traced the growth of the motion picture industry from the beginning in 1892 up to the present, and the known aggregate of 108,206 movie theatres throughout the world. He stressed the importance in three ways, as places of entertainment, holders of morale and great assets to business, and cited many examples to prove his statements. Commenting on the effect of T.V. on theatre attendance, Mr. Jolley reminded his hearers that radio had at first lowered attendance, just as T.V. is doing today but that after the novelty had worn off, attendance came back to normal, and the innovation proved assets in the movie field. The speaker particularly stressed the close relationship of theatre and business, saying that to get the people out of their houses and on the main street resulted in more sales at stores, restaurants and gas stations. He recommended that all pool together for better business and declared that the motion picture theatre more than upheld its part in producing business activity.

Did you know that....

Did you know that they used to be a telephone company in Canada called "The Great North-Western Telephone Company of Canada"? Well, it's a fact and it was apparently in its hey-day back in the thirties Mr. Neil J. Mack, of Lindsay brought a copy of the company's telephone into "The Post" to show how "this sort of thing was handled in those earlier days. The message was addressed to Alex Clark, President P.O. 1, a leader who was a couple of Mr. Mack's grandfathers. Mr. John Clark, it was dated November 19th, 1931 and was sent from Woodville. The message was a sad one. It read: "I wish I could send you Friday at 10:00 p.m." Send us G.P. Postage, under Mr. Mack. The entire message was written out in long hand.

In closing central with today's modern telephone communications system whether the message is typed over the wire or typewritten form at fantastic speeds. Mr. Mack also showed "The Post" a copy of an old time "Canada Post Office" of the same year, the cost of making one cent.

Our Own and Other Opinions

WE CAN ONLY SUGGEST

A few days ago "The Post" received a call from the president of the Lindsay Branch of Commerce—Mr. Lloyd Found—during which the president requested if it would be possible to invite the press to a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on a certain time give assurance to those attending that the press would refrain from quoting remarks by members. There would, he said, be no restraint on publishing facilities of the members. A "Post" columnist at the time that "what the President was requesting was merely an extension of the courtesy given by the press to any speaker at any public meeting, and that the Chamber of Commerce was not making a reasonable request because the press would refrain from the presentation of the news honestly and fairly to all concerned. However, in the light of the Chamber of Commerce, it emerged that what the president really sought was that the press attend, listen to speakers, and only report final decisions. This, of course, changed the picture entirely and "The Post" called the president to advise him that insofar as this newspaper was concerned, if he wanted that sort of arrangement the only way we knew it could be handled completely and completely ignore others. It is extremely unlikely that a conscientious reporter could sit through such a meeting.

It would be a betrayal of trust for a newspaper to promise to only print certain remarks and completely ignore others. It is extremely unlikely that a conscientious reporter could sit through such a meeting. Mr. Found wondered then if the press would be invited to see it would know what was going on. At first this seemed to have certain tenable aspects. But after due consideration it was decided that as far as the Chamber of Commerce was concerned, it was either OPEN or CLOSED and its presence would depend on this entirely. Mr. Found's advertisement on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce was not in part:

No press coverage. All business persons are encouraged to come and air their views without fear of being quoted by the press. The fact that the Chamber of Commerce did hold a meeting was not in part: "The Chamber of Commerce is a privately controlled organization (supported by private and public funds) and should be considered largely as financial support by the taxpayers."

FIRECRACKERS ARE FUN HANDLED CAREFULLY... Firecrackers can be a lot of fun for many people if they are handled in the proper manner. They can be very dangerous and should be handled with care. They can also be very dangerous if careless or deliberately dangerous usage is tolerated. There have been several incidents reported already this summer in which firecrackers have caused serious injury... two of these were in our own district.

Many of us can recall several tragic accidents to recent years arising from the misbanding of fireworks. Severe burns and even blindness have been the price paid (often by innocent people) for the unwise handling of these dangerous devices.

Police and the citizenry of Lindsay should deal firmly with any persons observed using fireworks in a dangerous manner during this season when noise-making becomes a part of our celebration.

WHAT'S WHAT

Nothing seems quite so serious in Britain as it seems in America—not even being in "Who's Who". We are brought to this reflection by a recent analysis in a British weekly as to probable reasons which the royal patronage secretary to offer flattering literary honours to one writer while perhaps slighting another.

There is the case of Sir Robert Sitwell, an example from our experience we know that Sir Robert deserves only the best. For was it not he, replying to an American reporter as to whether Sir Robert would attend a lecture in his Kingdom home, said: "But that would require putting in electric lights, wouldn't it?"

Now, if only Sir Robert could confine his wit to such references. But he has also informed us that he was in the States that he was educated in the holidays from St. John. And some British admirers feel that as a result he has never enjoyed all the honours he deserves.

In a somewhat Sitwellian vein the British weekly's analyst remarks: "The tendency to strike a lighter note in 'Who's Who' should be resisted by any writer who aims at literary decorations."

Some extracts in the British "Who's Who" have found ways to avoid the worst tactical errors. For example, one adequately distinguished "distinguished" as the only title. "These things do best please me that befall preposterously." And others, still more cautious, omit entirely all reference to their recreations.

"We have seen these weeks enough to be considered even for 'Who's Who' in America."

LATE SEASON

Applies should be in bloom, and butterflies should be putting forth their summer blossoms in the pastures. Here it's the middle of July, and even the dandelions are late. The birds are somewhat baffled, but most of them are going about their business, just as though they were. The weather has been the first of us. You see a robin gathering dry grass at the edge of the lawn, flying off with it, and coming back for it. And an occasional oriole, looking rather grim and chilly, searches through thorns and bits of string and seeks out the withered twig and where the hawthorns will be long for the birds. The phobes, for once more provident than the

of the others, are building their nests indoors at all-ways, in the comforted or in the barn or the garage.

Asparagus is late. Strawberries are taking their time. The early bees are hungry. The ants haven't really gone to work yet. And the garden rabbits are fat with young and are looking for gardens for next week's meals. But the garden, too, are late. So are the farmers, who go doggedly about their plowing, still hopeful. A farmer claims his fields with a mixture of seed and hope a year.

Back in the hills the maples aren't yet in leaf, nor are the birches. The trees are ready and waiting for a week of warmth. And the grass is calling for lawn mowers, in the towns and suburbs. Out in the country the cows are only now getting their first cut of hay and ears of the public has been waiting for a rebuff to the public. As the CNE is a semi-annual pinkie with powers derived from provincial statute, there is little that can be done beyond protesting against its annual all-out attitude.

ALOOK CNE

As the board of directors of the Canadian National Exhibition has seen fit to reject City Council's request that it throw its meetings open to the press. Since the CNE is a public institution, and since news reports are laws and ears of the public the decision represents a rebuff to the public. As the CNE is a semi-annual pinkie with powers derived from provincial statute, there is little that can be done beyond protesting against its annual all-out attitude.

THOSE GREY DAYS

One of the essentials of an ordered spring is a occasional grey day, to which a bit of morning rain lends emphasis.

This is not so much for the sake of the seedlings and flowers, for they may be expected to do all right on their own. Nor is it for the purely artistic sake of contrast, agreeable as such change in lighting may be to the artist. It is an essential because only through a grey day, with rain, can the human race hope to survive itself.

It is due to this also that the theory of land cultivation can continue as anything beyond a footnote in textbooks. For around the purely artistic sake of contrast, agreeable as such change in lighting may be to the artist. It is an essential because only through a grey day, with rain, can the human race hope to survive itself.

In the short, a body needs rest, and the grey day gives it. Rain in the morning is a little more restful.

FUN WITH BOOKS

The prospect who replied to a book salesman, "No thanks I already have a book," may not have realized how much fun one can have with books. Books are overrated as a book can be a source of pleasure. George Bernard Shaw knew how to have fun with books. One story has it that the author of "Pygmalion" was across one of his own books on a second-hand counter. He discovered it was a volume he had mailed to an eminent acquaintance, and was inscribed on the flyleaf, "To my companion, Mr. G. B. S." Mr. Shaw bought the book, and beneath the original inscription wrote, "With renewed compliments of G. B. S." Then remailed it to his acquaintance. Moral: it is not necessarily the receipt of a book who is the one who can do it.

Further evidence on this point has just come to me in a report on a man who found in a bookstore a large stack of a big and small volume of the "The Book of the Dead" by the same author. He found it had no index. So he bought up many copies and mailed them to his acquaintances with a note: "I think you will find this book interesting, especially the reference to you, which I hope you will not consider offensive."

Now there was a man who, like G. B. S., knew how to enjoy books. Of course, there is another way to seek pleasure in them. One may learn by reading.

U. S. POSTS ANOTHER "KEEP OFF" SIGN

Strange and wonderful are the lengths to which U. S. customs authorities will go to exclude Canadian exports from the United States.

The latest victim of U. S. farm protectionism is the Canadian-grown corn on the cob. Corn, as anyone knows, is a grain. In the eyes of the U. S. Customs Court, however, corn on the cob is a vegetable. As such, it is dutiable at a much higher rate than if it were classed as grain.

The U. S. Customs Court ruling puts yet another "Keep Off" sign for Canadian farm products.

Puzzling to farmers in this country is why United States farm products should continue to enjoy such access to Canada's markets and to compete with domestic farm products, when reciprocal treatment is constantly denied Canadian agriculture by U. S. customs authorities.

Time was, a few years ago, when enthusiasm for the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade was high in Canadian farm circles. Little wonder, in the light of the conspicuous disregard for the free trade principles of the Agreement by the United States, farmers in Canada are thoroughly disillusioned about GATT.

Next to produce a pad. Any ordinary pad will do, but it must have two blank sides. He then asks someone to write a number containing three digits on the pad. After this he takes the pad, and he asks the person to whom he gave the pad to place the pad on the table. He then asks the person to whom he gave the pad to place the pad on the table. EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

OFF THE BEAM

There seems to be widespread agreement among the residents of Lindsay that the Chamber of Commerce is away off the beam when it attempts to concern itself with matters which are primarily the concern of Town Council. The Chamber of Commerce, as recent evidence has shown, is a privately-controlled organization with no responsibility to the taxpayers of the town and matters related to promoting business, and in this connection probably has a wide range of projects which if enthusiastically pursued, could occupy all its time and best serve those it represents.

But, when the Chamber of Commerce starts getting concerned with annexation, building subdivisions and other things which require close study and the approval of Council, the Chamber is, we believe, heading for the shoals of disaster.

We have before us a copy of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce' policy declarations and resolutions for 1954-55. Here are some of the subjects with which the policy declarations concern themselves: agriculture; calendar reform; Communism; education as to its real aims; employer-employee relations; preservation of freedom of enterprise; profits—an explanation of what they mean to promote a greater public understanding of the role they play in business; education and so forth. There is nothing in the policy declaration to indicate that Chambers of Commerce should enter into the field now occupied by municipal government but there is evidence that they can find outlets for their energies in many other projects. To a local Chamber we can think of several worthwhile endeavours of the Chamber of Commerce, all in the interests of the town's welfare, most of them requiring little capital expenditure and making no demands on the town's finances. We believe many members of the Chamber can think of some 100.

Rebbero Mission Band Meets, Hear Story of 10 Commandments

Rebbero (PNS) —The Rebbero Mission Band held their first Spring meeting under the supervision of Mrs. W. C. Smith, who was assisted by Mrs. Lloyd McShay.
Speaker Billy Bled was in the chair to conduct the meeting which was followed by the "Lodge Prayer."
Following a hymn, the Junior members went into a separate class and Mrs. McShay led them the story of the "Ten Commandments," and they were given cards with memory verses on them to be studied for the next meeting.
The Junior members were instructed in the importance of the "Ten Commandments" by Mrs. Yea and they were to have them memorized for the following meeting.
The children together sang the verses and Junior sang the lovely hymn, "Jesus taught us to remember."
Mrs. Bled closed the meeting with an impressive prayer.
The children were given a treat of cookies before they started home. Cookies forward to another happy time at the Mission Band next week.

PUZZLES and GAMES for the FAMILY

SHORT STORY

Yaniti

By Richard Hill with

"EVERY MAN," said Inspector Joe Warren, frowning over the letter which he held in his hand, "has a weak point in the Flash's mind. The Flash must do this city's criminal history. It appears to be weak." He gestured toward the letter. "The fellow has become drunk with his success in accomplishing two outstanding robberies. And now he has taken to writing to his father, stating just where he's going to be at a certain time and what he plans to do."

"Indeed," Fargo had smiled from the ceiling and waded his chief's report.

"So far," he said, "it seems to have been pretty successful in carrying out his plans. This is the third letter we've received."

"Each time The Flash has appeared where he had been mentioned in the letters. And while we've stood idle, the criminal has committed his crimes and we've waited for him to appear."

"What's he up to this time?"

"The Detective," said Warren, frowning. "The truth of Fargo's statement is that Mrs. Devanish's husband has been killed. She has been in the Flash's state in this letter that he intends to steal the emerald and flee out of the city."

"Fargo, as you know, the Flash's desire is satisfied. He'll appear at that party as a guest, or perhaps he'll appear with the Detective."

"I would you to get there early, meet Mrs. Devanish when she comes down stairs and direct her until the last guest has gone. Then he'll have the emerald and a couple away in a safe before you leave. I'll have the police and a group of men waiting with weapons."

"Not only that, but the actual owner of all these bullets is simultaneously revealed." Fargo said.

"What name?"

"Unseen Stephen."

"SHARP," said Warren, frowning. "I've never heard of him."

"I've never heard of him," said Warren, frowning. "I've never heard of him."

"I've never heard of him," said Warren, frowning. "I've never heard of him."

"I've never heard of him," said Warren, frowning. "I've never heard of him."

Weekend Parkers From Parked to Parked

RECALL SIMILAR PILFERING REPORTED HERE YEAR AGO

Provincial Police at Lindsay have reported that there appeared to be an epidemic of thefts over the weekend involving road graders.

It is reported that a grader belonging to the McFarlane Construction Co. had been parked near the Pleasant Point School, but when the operator returned to his machine he found that tools, lights, and other equipment had been stolen.

Another grader, belonging to the Ope-
Tombash was parked over the weekend about one mile north of Dundas and near 36 highway. It was found to have been stolen of tools, battery, lights, and other parts.

It was pointed out that last year, there had also been an outbreak in the district of a similar type of crime but the perpetrator had sub-

Report Lindsay Businessman Offered Socks Camp-site

A Lindsay businessman, so far unidentified, has made an offer to the Lindsay Boy Scouts Association of a large plot of land on the banks of the Snugby River which they can use for a summer camp site for a nominal rental of one dollar.

According to Mr. A. Dickinson, the offer was just recently made, but has not been presented officially to a meeting of the association. However, Mr. Dickinson says that he feels the offer may be accepted, since the local Scouts have been offering to purchase a plot of land for a summer camp site, but have had no suitable camping site near Lindsay.

Mr. Dickinson said he preferred not to identify the make location on the ground as yet, but he said the property is of a large size, and highly suitable for this purpose. He said the offer requires no cash, but is a logical one.

He also pointed out that this offer of the land is being made by a businessman who has always taken a keen interest in boy scouts, and that he has been for some time of the opinion that, it is businesslike to offer a large plot of land to the Scouts, who are taking an interest in the youth of the community.

First Round: Nellie Bradburn, Shirley Hink, A. Richardson, Moss, Moe Goller, Bill Boudreau, 72, 73.

In the afternoon, the popular mixed-amateur foursome competition was run off, with Maude Adams and Gertrude combining to win the low gross. Ray Rick and Frank Coulson, winning low net honors. Most women golfers were Sun Cox and Ray Brown.

Stella Howard's rink was second prize. Ken Wilson's rink on Curling, scoring during play was given to Ken Wilson's rink, who won third prize.

Monarchs Feted By Minden Club

Minden (P.N.B.)—The Minden Monarchs were recently entertained at a dinner party by the Minden Hockeyists at Osgood Lodge. After the dinner, a few brief speeches were made and two guest hockey players (professionals) gave a fine address to those present.

The Minden Monarchs and the management were presented with expensive lighters, suitably engraved to mark the occasion and in recognition of the outstanding hockey they played this year.

Last night was held the team at the Rockville meet where a very pleasant time was spent.

The boys will soon be sporting their new hockey jackets, which have been ordered.

Blacksmith Still Finds Horses

The blacksmith, hero of Langfellow's immortal poem, no longer spends as much time "teach the spreading chestnut tree as he does peering into the complicated interior of a shodded farm horse. Today he is quite often a combination smith, farrier, artisan and mechanic. Typical of the few remaining members of his trade is 36-year-old Harper Rennick, who has tended his forge in the rural community of Shawville, P.Q., since 1917. He still has a small following who call on his horse-shoeing skills, but, in line with this age of speed, the bulk of his work is to keep sickle plows and tractors well-shod for the race-tracks of county fairs.

In 1920 Canada boasted about 3,500,000 horses, performing heavy, useful work on farms, cattle ranches and in cities. But in the years since, with the development of heavy trucks and efficient farm machinery, auto-makers have more and more forced horses from the road and put them under the hood of today's sleek automobiles.

Today, Canada's horse population has shrunk to about 900,000 animals, and it's dwindling every day. With the exception of a few draft horses still doing daily battle with big-city traffic, Canada's supply of equus caballus is now pretty much relegated to doing minor farm and ranch chores or just to being ridden by mechanization.

At glowing hearth once operated by his father, Rennick heats up a shoe preparatory to shoeing trotting horse. In 1917, farmers from the Shawville area paid John Rennick $2.00 for complete shoeing service; today's prices have jumped to about $7.00 per animal, with extra charge for removal of old shoes and re-corking.

Rennick hammers heated horseshoe into shape on anvil in his shop. Farmers often send him cardboard patterns of horses' hooves; Rennick then tailor-makes sets of shoes and travels around country to shoe animals on the spot. During peak spring and fall periods, Rennick shoes as many as four horses daily.

Rennick clinches shoe on horse's hoof using rap file. As well as being blacksmith, farm implements dealer and tractor repairman, Rennick also has raced trotters at district fairs. Bulk of his work in the forge is in shoeing trotters, but occasionally he is called upon to repair iron-bound carriage wheels.

Veteran blacksmith Harper Rennick, 36, stands before shop established in Shawville, P.Q. by his father, John Rennick, in 1914. Young Harper left school at the age of seventeen to carry on in his father's trade. Much of the equipment still in use in the forge was originally brought from Ireland by the senior Rennick.
